"I've been in nursing for over 30 years working not only in different settings but different countries. At all times the basic premise remains the same, its about the patient and their family and helping them understand, helping them feel more comfortable and helping them get better. I have done this for many years as registered nurse and I strongly felt with my experience and capability continuing in my nursing education to the point that I could more independently practice medicine and become a bona-fide practitioner that I could offer my patients even more.

"I have worked in many settings both in the operating room, within hospitals and outpatients. I have developed a fairly good sense for understanding my patients, their families and with my nursing background getting a good sense of what others might miss in evaluating a patient. This likely comes from my nursing training that I think may at times go beyond what other, non-nursing professionals may not fully grasp. I hope this gives me the ability to add an extra dimension to my care that others can't offer.

"My extensive experience in both orthopedics and gynecology give me a good predisposition to helping my neurology patients experiencing pain and also those who find themselves scared and vulnerable in their illness, work-up and diagnosis. I look forward to meeting you and/or your loved one and hope I can bring my years of experience and caring to the table to help in the healing process"

Highly advanced, skilled & experienced care.
